The Commission Executive Committee of the Council on Occupational Education (COE) has awarded Candidate for Accreditation status to HyperLearning Technologies, 3630 South Plaza Trail, Suite 250, Virginia Beach, VA. The announcement was made by Ms. Jody Hawk, Commission Chair, following the November Executive Committee Meeting held in Miami, Florida, on November 2, 2011.

HyperLearning Technologies provides one of the best training solutions for those wanting to learn an IT topic and obtain technical certification. The CompTIA, Microsoft, CISCO and PMP certification training can be taken separately or combined into an Associate of Applied Science in Information Technologies Degree. HyperLearning programs are designed to prepare students for a job in the IT field with exceptional education and the technical certifications required in today's IT workplace.

George Geyer, President of HyperLearning Technologies, said that Accreditation is the right choice for the Company as students look to obtain the education and training which will give them the best opportunity to possess the knowledge and skills required for today's workforce. With the Associate Degree in IT from HyperLearning, a student can finish the program with both an AAS degree and Certifications in CompTIA, Microsoft, CISCO and Project Management. A degree plus the skills and knowledge validated by the industry recognized certifications will set HyperLearning graduates apart from those with only certifications or only academic education.

The Council on Occupation Education (COE) as the accrediting body is a very good fit for HyperLearning. The Council's mission is to assure quality and integrity in career and technical education while HyperLearning's mission is to provide highest quality technical instruction leading to industry recognized certification. We look forward to the accreditation process and accreditation and the benefits it will provide to our students.
